Chapter 1

Author's Notes:
This was harder than I thought! I hope everyone enjoys it! :)

Mark rarely needed words to know what Myles was thinking. Those blue orbs could tell him things that words couldn't begin to describe. From the way they darkened in anger to becoming the light of the room when he was happy.

However, nothing compared to the sparkle that appeared right before Myles would tell him he loved him.

"I love you too." He replied as Myles stared at him curiously.

"Reading my mind now?" He asked with a chuckle.

"Nope." He said, leaning in for a kiss. "Your eyes always tell me everything I need to know."
